These IN-STUDIO OUTREACH programs have become a regular (and very popular) event for Ballet San Jose this season. On the Friday before leaving the studios to move into the theater for technical and dress rehearsals of each ballet program, Development Director Sheri Frumkin invites selected guests and organizations to get "up close and personal" with the dancers. Attendees watch a run-through of the program just inches away from the stage, and then enjoy catered food and beverages with the 35 company dancers and various staff members following the program. Food for this event was provided by Steve Borkenhagen of Eulipia Restaraunt in downtown San Jose.

The April event will feature performances from MIDDLE KINGDOM—ANCIENT CHINA.
